The value of investments and the income from them can go down as well as up and cannot be guaranteed. Investments in a currency other than the shareholder's own currency, or in a fund that invests in securities denominated in currencies other than its own base currency, will be subject to the movements of foreign exchange rates, which may cause an additional favourable or unfavourable change in value. Consequently, investors may, on selling their shares, receive an amount greater or less than their original investment.

MARKET OVERVIEW

The first quarter of 2018 was a difficult one for corporate bonds. While sterling investment grade credit outperformed UK government bonds in January, the return generated by a tightening of credit spreads over gilts was offset by yield moves with UK government bond yields moving higher. Thereafter, volatility returned to risk markets, with yield spreads widening in both February and March.

The main drivers were an escalation in fears of a trade war between the world's two largest economies, China and the US, along with rising inflation. Softer economic data globally also had a negative impact.

Spreads in sterling are now back to levels last seen in March 2017, while Euro and US markets have also experienced significant repricing.

The Fund modestly underperformed its index benchmark, helped by a short duration position but hindered by long exposure to lower quality credit

Bonds issued by banks and insurers underperformed the market as a whole and detracted from returns. HSBC and Citigroup were amongst the underperformers.

An overweight position in bonds issued by Dignity Finance, the UK funeral home operator, underperformed materially following a profit warning. This cost the Fund approximately 8 basis points over the period

An allocation to AAA floating rate securitisations benefited performance for the Fund in a rising yield environment.

FUTURE POLICY

The Fund remains long of lower quality relative to its index benchmark, despite having taken profits and reduced risk late in the last quarter of 2017

Bonds issued by financial institutions remain favoured and continue to offer relatively attractive yields relative to similar rated corporates. Both banks and insurers benefit from higher government bond yields

Duration remains strategically short as the Fund Managers look to preserve capital.
