Sector and Asset split information is based on the latest corresponding data points made available by our data provider, the collective data stated shows the combined proportionally weighted target fund holding, where such information is made available by the underlying Fund Manager. This is a binary requirement, therefore where this data is not available for one or more of the constituent funds no split data will be shown.

Fund objective

The Zurich Target Date Funds are a series of target-date portfolios. These mixed asset funds are designed to provide capital growth over specific investment terms by varying the asset exposure and therefore the risk profile of the fund as the investment period shortens. The funds primarily invest in equities and fixed-income assets although positions in alternative asset classes may be included for diversification purposes.

Fund features

Portfolio Rationale (as at July 2022):

Within equity markets, our allocation is balanced across the different regions. We continue to see the US market as being the least attractive from a relative perspective. We favour markets that offer better value and offer interesting diversification benefits, such as Japan, the UK, or the Global Healthcare sector. The portfolio holds significant exposure to global bonds, with a preference for US bonds. The fixed income allocation is broadly diversified with significant exposure to more defensive assets such as governments bonds or inflation-linked bonds combined with exposures to both investment grade and Emerging Markets debt. We also hold significant positions in money market funds given the extremely low level of bonds yields. The Zurich TDFs are composed of both active and passive funds. We have opted to access active funds through our highest conviction managers, in the areas where we consider that they will add more value – e.g., PIMCO Global Investment Grade Credit or FundsSmith Equity. Passive funds are used to access areas such as US large-cap equities, emerging market equities and government bonds. Source: Morningstar Direct.
